

INSIDE THIS ISSUE

Showing off Barnsley's achievements	1, 2
Uncover hidden stories	3
Unfurling stories of the artists part three	3
Progress news	3
Contact us	3
Questionnaire 2013	(see separate sheet)

SPECIAL POINTS OF INTEREST

We are seeking your ideas about our exhibition; it would be good if you could answer our questionnaire with this newsletter.

Help us find out more about the artists.

Barnsley Art on Your Doorstep

The Hidden Art of Barnsley

March 2013

Volume 1, issue 3

Showing off Barnsley's achievements

Pictures of some of the artists

In mid-2014 we are putting on a show of art works by past Barnsley artists. This means those who were born in or who were strongly connected with the District. This is the first time that this has ever been done.

It will spotlight the brilliance of the achievements by people from Barnsley.

It will be at the Cooper Gallery, Barnsley.

We have discovered over 25 artists so far. We are in the throes of contacting galleries to borrow examples of their original work.

We need to organize it so that it is fun, exciting, thrilling, an experience of a lifetime; we want to surprise people by the artists' originality, by the different ways they have expressed themselves and by beautiful things.

We want to show how they worked with the leading national artists of their day.

We want to claim for Barnsley some artists who have been acclaimed elsewhere both nationally and internationally.

We want to tell stories about what the artists achieved in their lives.

Most of all we want to make everyone aware of the inspiring artistic history Barnsley people have. Many people do not know of it.

What are your thoughts? We are asking you to comment on our ideas about the content of the exhibition.

We will have exhibits; also clearly written information panels and labels.

What sort of other reading would you like to see at the gallery and what would you like to take home?

We want to attract all ages including families. We will need to have space for children's activities in different parts of the galleries. What kind of activities? There will be some DVD material on screens.

(continued on page 2)

So far, we thought that we might have five different themes.

Engraving of glass blowing 1840's

First of all, under the banner of Industry and Art, we could group together those artists that came from families who were deeply involved in Barnsley's industries. We have 18th century glass makers, early 19th century linen weavers; and two artists from the early 20th century involved in coal mining or glass design.

Art and industry lived side by side. We could show images about early glass making and linen weaving as this is not much known about.

Portraiture contrasted 1765-1985

Tate; Moore; A.Hold; Wortley; Fairley; Shortridge; J.R.Spencer Stanhope

Examples of portraits

Secondly Barnsley has produced many portrait painters. One opportunity would be to compare how different artists saw the human face, show different styles and painting techniques and perhaps compare that with photography. Who did the artists paint? What did that say about their social standing? Could they make a living out of painting portraits? Are there other questions we should be looking at?

Thirdly many of the artists painted or sketched the outdoors: landscape, old buildings of Barnsley, sporting activity and even birds' nests.

There are stunning contrasts between how past Barnsley artists painted the countryside. We could group these next to each other.

There are also artists who travelled abroad far and afield and we could tell their story. Would it be interesting to see maps of their journeys?

William Neatby, Manchester School of Art

The fourth theme we have come up with is decorative arts which mean the design and manufacture of functional objects (furniture, wall paper, tiles, industrial design, features on buildings).

This will be difficult to show except by photographs, as often they are bulky or fixed to buildings internally or externally.

We could perhaps use slide projection to show this. Barnsley town centre has a lot of

William Neatby –Fox and Anchor pub, London

Landscape compared

T.W.Ashmore; W.A.Hobbs; A.Hold; E.Heslop;

Examples of landscape painting

decorative art on its buildings and we hope to find volunteers who would like to put together a 'Spot decorative arts in Barnsley' booklet.

We have had the idea of putting Mystery and Worship together as a fifth theme. Do you agree they go well together?

We have artists who did stained glass, church design, church carving and paintings from ancient myths.

Design by Edward Liddall Armitage

We have a short questionnaire with this newsletter; we would be very pleased if you could answer it and email it back to us or post it at 16 Victoria Road, Barnsley. We will have a good think about what you say. In the next newsletter we will tell everyone the main ideas people have had and how we will take them on board.

How you could help uncover hidden stories

Work with a volunteer researcher or have your own artist to look at.

- Use internet searches, libraries;
- Find out who to email for information;
- Track down lost paintings or other works;
- Find out family details;
- Make contact with descendants;
- Training and support available via our volunteer coordinator.

Why not contact us now?

Fascinating discoveries await you!

Unfurling stories of the artists part three

Abel Hold painted many birds' nests. We are seeking help from any bird enthusiasts to view them in museums or on line to identify them. If you can help, we would welcome contact.

Thomas Witlam Atkinson, the architect/artist traveller returned from Russia in 1858 to talk at the British Association for the Advancement of Science (for 1858 in Leeds). He spoke in the Geography Section about his travels. In the Geology section, a paper on 'The Permian System in Yorkshire' was given by Rev. William Thorp. He was BAYD chair's great great grandfather, son of Samuel Thorp of Banks Hall, glass maker and coal owner, and grandson of the William

PROGRESS NEWS

Fifth podcast created on Ernest Moore with year 6 students at Summer Lane Primary School;

Scripts written for Horizon CC students' promotional film;

Making 4 community radio programmes;

Provided information event for volunteers;

Planning talks to groups, Worsborough History Group and Mapplewell Ladies Group;

Copyright approvals received.

Thorp who (with Paul Tate) created Gawber Glass House in 1733. Did they know each other?

Thanks to Margaret Cadman, we have now established artistic links with the family of James Hudson Taylor, missionary of Barnsley. Several members of his family were portrait painters. We are pursuing this further and would welcome any further information from Hudson Taylor historians.

Many thanks to Steve Wyatt for revealing to us the naughty postcard artist Brian Fitzpatrick. They should create a stir at our exhibition! Anne and Ken Nicholls have kindly volunteered to research him.

Thank you to John Clark and his brother David. They have kindly agreed to loan us a fascinating painting of women working in their glassworks in the 1940's. Will anyone be able to recognize any member of their family? Also thanks for generously donating to us two books about glass making; one by their father Dr Alec Clark on the history of Beatson, Clark and Company, bottle manufacturers and the other an illustrated history of The Glass Works, Rotherham (1751-1951). This was contemporary with: (1) Gawber Glass works (1735-1821) where the Tates grew up; (2) Woods where Kenneth Graham worked for a time.

Turkey Café, Leicester, by William J Neatby

The above is by Rosa Whitlaw who wrote a book about Lionel Percy Smythe. She took lessons from him. Can anyone identify where this is? It will throw light on his history.